“Colorado deserves policy and decision makers committed to solving our housing crisis and helping Coloradans achieve the American Dream of homeownership,” said Janene Johnson, Chair of the Colorado Association of REALTORS® Political Action Committee (CARPAC). “After careful consideration, we have endorsed General Assembly candidates who share our values in helping and protecting Coloradans across homeownership issues, building strong communities, protecting private property rights, and promoting a vibrant economic future for all Coloradans. We urge voters to consider them when casting their Primary Election ballot by 7 p.m. June 25 and the commonsense solutions they can bring to the General Assembly.”

The Association and its members believe that every Coloradan who aspires to own a home should have the opportunity and a pathway to do so. A thriving real estate market is also critical to the health and vitality of our communities. Unfortunately, Colorado is still facing a shortfall of more than 100,000 homes and apartments, the second worst deficit of any state after California, according to Up for Growth.

“CAR believes every individual should have accessible, attainable, and available housing,” said CAR President Jason Witt. “Our communities benefit significantly from home ownership as, of course, do the individuals and families who can achieve positive impacts for generations to come by building generational wealth.

Additional Primary Election endorsements may occur before June 25 and endorsements for General Election candidates will be conducted and announced later this summer.

The Colorado Association of REALTORS® is the state’s largest real estate trade association representing more than 26,000 members statewide. The association supports private property rights, equal housing opportunities and is the “Voice of Real Estate” in Colorado. For more information, <http://www.coloradorealtors.com>.
